RE: Lockdown Incident at NJB

Dear NJB Families,

This is Principal Christie Wells-Artman with a safety update. This message is to notify you that our school was on a lockdown.

The lockdown was placed as a precautionary measure in response to police activity in the area surrounding the school. Every student is safe and the lockdown was lifted as soon as law enforcement on the scene confirmed that it was safe to resume normal activity. Please rest assured that all students are safe.

Student safety is our top priority. We routinely practice lockdown drills to prepare for these situations. We treat all safety issues seriously and will continue to be transparent in communicating with you about what is going on near our campus.

School will be safely in session tomorrow and we look forward to welcoming each and every NJB student. Your presence here at school is so important tomorrow. We will have team members from our district counseling team here to offer support for staff and children.

We will reach out with additional information as it becomes available.

We are grateful for your support and partnership,

Christie Wells-Artman, Principal, New Joseph Bonnheim Community Charter School
